The Grieving Child will be facilitated by Molly Malany Sayre, MSW, LSW, a licensed social worker and therapist who has received specialized training in grief and loss, mental health, and play therapy.

The Grieving Child

Children who are going through the grief process often become frustrated and confused with what's happening to them. In this group, children will learn how to understand their feelings, work through their grief, and find support to cope with the death of someone close to them. Each week, we will address a theme, such as recognizing losses, remembering the relationship, saying goodbye, developing healthy memorials, and moving forward. The facilitator will use individual and group activities, play therapy techniques, and creative interventions during group sessions. Potential group members must complete an assessment. The one hour assessment is $75, group sessions are $30 per session.
